

You must not let telemarketers of any kind destroy the peace and quiet that we have finally won back for our evenings in our home. Before the do-not-call list was created, we received up to 20 calls a night! How dare they ruin our evenings with a never-ending ring on our phone. And how dare you let them. We should not have to fear the phone, and we should not have to shut it off (and then miss calls from our kids. And we should not have to carry the phone with us every where in the house just to see if the call is from children or friends or another bothersome business caller. I don't want any business calls to my home unless I ask them to call (including anyone I cancelled business with).

The Wisconsin do-not-call list was one of the most popular laws in the last decade. It was a big issue to us during the elections, and we'll make it a national issue in the next congressional elections, which are only a 18 months away.
